

Make Homemade Salad Dressing From Soybeans!

This science experiment will allow you to make salad dressing with everyday ingredients you may find in your kitchen cabinets!

What you will need:

- | | |
|---------------------------|-------------------------------|
| 2 tablespoons sugar | 1-1/2 tablespoons ketchup |
| 1 tablespoon vinegar | Measuring spoons |
| 3 tablespoons soybean oil | Vegetable sticks |
| 2 tablespoons water | Small plastic bowl with a lid |

What you do:

Add sugar to the vinegar. After shaking, the sugar dissolves in the vinegar. Next, add soybean oil to the container and shake. Add water and shake again. Finally, add the ketchup to the solution and shake one last time. You are now ready to dip the vegetable sticks and enjoy eating your very own salad dressing!
